New Board members shall be accorded a welcoming orientation program to introduce the new member to the staff, provide information about the library and to acquaint them of local, state and national programs.

The Board shall elect a chair and a vice-chair at the beginning of each serving year, and in the absence of the chair, the vice-chair shall assume the duties of the chair.

Board members receive no salary or compensation for services rendered, nor any financial interest either directly or indirectly in any contract to which the library is a party. Board members may be reimbursed for expenses incurred in the performance of duties.

The Board, should it so desire, may appoint the Library Director as secretary to the board to take minutes and to keep a record of its actions.

At each meeting, the board shall follow an agenda prepared by the Library Director prior to the meeting with other pertinent information on which the board members will be required to make decisions.

The Board shall meet at least once a month in the library at a designated time. Special sessions may be called by the chair of the board should the chair deem it necessary.

Three Board members present shall meet the requirements of a quorum.

Failure of a Board member to attend any three meetings within a twelve-month period without valid reason shall be grounds for dismissal. A twelve-month period is defined as beginning in January of each calendar year.

Business meetings shall be governed by Robert's Rules of Order.

The Board believes that censorship is an individual matter and declares that while anyone is free to reject materials of which one does not approve; one cannot exercise this right of censorship to restrict the freedom to read of others.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Oregon State Law¹ makes the following library records exempt from disclosure: The records of a library, including circulation records, showing use of specific library material by a named person or consisting of the name of a library patron together with the address or telephone number.

It is the policy of the Seaside Public Library not to release information that would reveal the identity of a library patron who checked out or used certain materials or requested an item of information from the Library. Information concerning the account of a patron will be released to that person only.

However, the Library will release information to the parent or guardian of a minor child for the purpose of recovering overdue material and settling accounts for lost, late or damaged material or charges incurred by minor children for which a parent or guardian may be considered liable. Information will not be provided to parents or guardians who are merely attempting to determine what library materials their minor children are using.

Other requests for the release of information of confidential patron records will be honored if submitted by an order from the court as outlined in the Oregon Revised Statutes.

REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION

The Library Director is the custodian of library records. All requests for records from law enforcement, the public, the press or any other source must be forwarded to the Director's office.

¹ORS 192.502 (21).

The Library Director will consult with the City Attorney before deciding the appropriate response for records requests.

LAW ENFORCEMENT REQUESTS

If the Library Director is unavailable, staff members should

- Ask to see the identification of the officer or agent
- Write down
 1. the badge number
 2. the name of the law enforcement agency
 3. the officer/agent's name and phone number
- If possible, get a business card

Library records cannot be released without the approval of the Library Director or designee.

SEARCH WARRANTS AND SUBPOENAS

Any employee who receives the request for Library records shall ask for the identification of the person or entity making the request and then immediately refer such person or entity to the Library Director. In the absence of the Library Director, they should immediately refer to the designee in charge as assigned by the Library Director.

The Library Director or designee should attempt to contact the Library's legal counsel (City of Seaside Attorney) and to have such legal counsel present. In the event that legal counsel is not available, the Library Director or designee should only meet with the requesting person or agent with another Library staff member in attendance.

If the requesting person or entity or the agent or officer of that person or entity does not have a court-issued order, subpoena or search warrant compelling production of the records, the Library Director or designee shall explain the Library's confidentiality policy and the State's confidentiality law and inform the person that Library patron records are not available except when such an order, subpoena or search warrant has been presented.

If the court order is in the form of a court-issued order or subpoena, before any records are produced the Library's legal counsel shall examine the order or subpoena for any legal defect, including the manner in which it was served on the Library, the breadth of its request, its form, or any insufficient showing of good cause made to the court.

If the order is in the form of a duly-issued search warrant, the agent or officer may legally begin the search of Library records as soon as the Library Director or designee is served with the order. However, the Library Director or designee should ask to have the Library's legal counsel present before the search begins in order to allow the Library's legal counsel an opportunity to examine the sufficiency of the search warrant and to assure that the search conforms to the terms of the search warrant.

If the order is a search warrant issued under the Foreign Intelligence Security Act, no information regarding the existence of the search warrant or of the records that have been produced pursuant to the warrant shall be disclosed to any other party, including the patron whose records are subject to the search warrant. The Library Director or designee does have the right to and shall seek legal advice concerning the warrant from the Library's legal counsel and shall request that the Library's legal counsel be present during the actual search and execution of the warrant.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT AND MATERIALS SELECTION

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT POLICY

The Seaside Public Library Collection Development Policy is intended to guide the selection of materials to be added to the collections, whether by purchase, through gifts, or through donation. The policy will provide the basis for the systematic development of the Library collection and sets forth the criteria to be met in selecting books, serials, media, electronic products, and other forms of research materials.

The Library Board of the Seaside Public Library recognizes that American democracy functions only if the full range of human ideas is accessible to the people. Proponents of various points of view must be able to fully and openly make their cases, however popular or unpopular they may be. These principles are guaranteed in the First Amendment of the Constitution. A public library is a First Amendment institution.

The library collection, protected by the First Amendment, exists for the benefit of its patrons. Seaside Public Library must offer a storehouse of ideas that are varied, divergent and inclusive.

Collection development at the Seaside Public Library is founded on the principles of intellectual freedom, equal access for all, and the preservation of the documentary record of culture. The library provides a collection that balances viewpoints across a broad spectrum of opinion and subject matter in formats suitable to a variety of learning and selection practices that are flexible and responsive to the changing needs of the community. The library builds and maintains collections for the general public while recognizing the needs of special population groups.

The library collection will be selected and maintained to enable each person to find the library materials and information that she or he wants according to his or her own free choice. The collection, taken as a whole, will be an excellent and unbiased source of information. It will include as wide a selection as possible. Subjects and viewpoints will be covered in sufficient depth to meet anticipated and expressed needs.

Factors to be considered in adding specific materials to the library collection will include any one or more of the following: composition of the present collection, collection objectives, public interest, patron requests, and timeliness of topic, audience for material, current or historical significance of author or subject.

COLLECTIONS ACCESS

The Library Board recognizes that full, confidential, and unrestricted access to information is essential for patrons to exercise their rights as citizens. The Board believes that reading, listening, and viewing are individual private matters. While anyone is free to select or reject materials for themselves or their own minor children, the freedom of others to read, view, listen or inquire cannot be restricted.

The library collection will be organized and maintained to facilitate access. No materials will be labeled, restricted, sequestered, or altered because of any controversy about the author or the subject matter.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE COLLECTION

Ultimate responsibility for the selection of library materials rests with the Library Director who operates within the framework of policies determined by the Library Board. Suggestions from staff members and patrons are encouraged and given serious consideration in the selection process.

GENERAL SELECTION CRITERIA

The selection of library materials is based on the patron's right to read and view, as well as the right to freedom from censorship by others. Selection is a discerning and interpretive process, involving a general knowledge of the subject and its important literature, a familiarity with the materials in the collection, an awareness of the bibliographies on the subject, and recognition of the needs of the community. To build a well-balanced collection of merit and significance, materials in all forms must be measured by objective guidelines. Since the Library does not promote particular beliefs or views, the collection will contain various positions on important questions, including unpopular or unorthodox positions. The Seaside Public Library actively strives to ensure that materials representing many differing views and a broad diversity of human thought and creativity are represented in its collection.

Acquisition of materials are based on the general principles of selection which include diversity of viewpoint, effective expression, creativity, imagination, reading enjoyment, and popularity as measured by accepted "best seller" lists. No materials will be excluded because of race, nationality, religion, gender, sexual orientation, political or social view of the material or the author.

DONATIONS AND GIFTS

Donations of materials and gift items are gratefully accepted as long as no restriction is placed upon their use or disposal.

Acceptance of books and other library materials will be determined by the Library Director on the basis of their suitability to library purposes and needs. Ultimate use or disposal of all gift materials will be determined by the Library Director or designated agent.

The library has the right to discard any gifts in poor physical condition.

Gifts will not be appraised for value by library staff.

MEMORIALS

The Seaside Library Memorial fund was established to accept funds donated in honor or memory of a loved one. Full consideration is given to the donor to assist in recommending items for purchase. Unless otherwise advised, bookplates are placed on each item purchased in honor of the loved one.

PATRON REQUESTS

The library strongly encourages its patrons to suggest items, topics, or authors they would like to see included in the collection. Patron suggestions will receive serious consideration and requested materials will be purchased whenever possible.

The Seaside Public Library enhances its borrowing and lending capabilities through membership in the OCLC (Online Computer Library Center) network, an automated system that connects the library to over 5000 libraries in the United States and other countries. The Library relies on resource sharing as an extension of the collection. The Seaside Public Library will ask to borrow materials for patrons upon request. The Seaside Library will also share its collection with any other library upon request when possible.

GENERAL DESELECTION CRITERIA

The Library Board recognizes that discarding materials from the collection is an important part of maintaining the Library collection. The discard policy of the Library will consider the same factors as the selection policy.

Materials that no longer meet the stated objectives of the library will be systematically withdrawn on a continual basis. Disposition and replacement of weeded library materials will be at the discretion of the Library Director.

Weeded materials may include unneeded duplicate copies, outdated materials, and materials that are badly worn or damaged.

Systematic withdrawal of materials no longer useful is necessary in order to maintain an accurate, timely and relevant collection. Library materials are discarded based on the CREW (Continuous Review, Evaluation and Weeding) method developed by Joseph P. Segal of the Texas State Library and recognized as the role model for de-selection.

- Misleading (and/or factually inaccurate)
- Ugly (worn and beyond repair or mending)
- Superseded by a new edition or better book on the subject
- Trivial (of no discernible literary or scientific merit)
- Your collection has no use for this book (is irrelevant to the interest of needs of the library community)

DISPOSITION OF MATERIALS

Disposition of library materials is subject to all relevant provisions of the Charter of the City of Seaside.

The two methods of disposition of library materials are donation and discard.

Donation

Materials may be donated to the Friends of the Seaside Library to be sold on behalf of the city for the benefit of the Library. Materials may be offered to other libraries and/or institutions (hospitals, nursing homes, e.g.).

Materials that are of limited use to the public, and cannot be sold or donated to other institutions may be recycled or discarded.

RECONSIDERATION OF MATERIALS

The Board recognizes the right of individuals to question materials in the Library collection. Anyone questioning material in the collection may ask the staff about such materials. A staff member will give the patron a copy of this policy.

Individuals still questioning library materials may state their opinion in writing on the "Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials" form. The form will be referred to the Library Board. The patron may attend the open meeting of the Library Board to hear the opinions expressed. The Board will consider whether the material meets the criteria of the selection policies described herein. If there is more than one complaint, each will be considered and taken seriously. The Library Director will respond in writing to each individual as soon as practical, citing the decision of the Board.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROTECTION

The Library Board considers all materials selected under this policy constitutionally protected under the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

If a patron charges that a particular item is not protected under the First Amendment, the burden of proof rests with the complainant.

If a court having jurisdiction over the Seaside Public Library decides that any material in the collection is unprotected by the Constitution, such material will be removed immediately. Material under court consideration will remain available to patrons until a final ruling.

POLICY REVIEW

This Policy for the Selection and Discarding of Materials will be reviewed periodically to be revised or reaffirmed.

ELECTRONIC INFORMATION AND SERVICES

ACCESS TO ELECTRONIC INFORMATION, SERVICES AND NETWORKS

The library's public computers allow users to search a variety of electronic resources. Library Online Public Access Computers, also known as the Library Catalog computers, are exclusively for searching the library's holdings. Computer lab computers in the adult and teen areas provide access to the Internet, word processing software, and printing capabilities in addition to other applications. Computer lab computers do not provide support for all file types, browsers, browser plug-ins, or the vast array of all technology.

The library strives to balance the rights of users to access information resources with the rights of users to work in a public environment free from sounds and images that might disturb other library users or library staff.

The library's goal in providing Internet access is to provide further resources beyond the physical Library collection, and, as a public access agency, to give anyone who wishes to use the Internet the chance to do so.

COMPUTER USE FOR CHILDREN AND YOUNG ADULTS

The Children's area in the library is designed to be welcoming for children. To best serve children, all computers in the Children's area are for use of children from grade school age and under and their parents or caregivers.

The Young Adult area is designed to be used by middle school and high school students.

The Seaside Public Library does not filter any computer stations in the Library. Parents or legal guardians shall assume responsibility for deciding which library resources are appropriate for their own children. Parents or legal guardians should guide their children in use of the Internet.

Parents shall be aware that not all sites are appropriate for their children.

The Seaside Public Library affirms the safeguarding of First Amendment rights, intellectual freedom, equality of access, confidentiality of information about users, and their use of library resources. The library affirms the principles concerning Access to Digital Information, Services, and Networks, as delineated within the American Library Association's Library Bill of rights.

TIME AND OTHER LIMITATIONS

To access the Internet a customer must use his or her own library card number. A visitor who does not have a library card may receive an Internet guest pass by giving their name or showing identification. Visitors under the age of 16 need not show identification. Patrons who have outstanding fines and charges will not be allowed to use the Internet.

Each individual must use his or her own library card number or guest pass number to log in. If other computers are available, extra time may be allowed if the patron is in the process of seeking employment, paying taxes, taking an examination or testing, or other need that is deemed appropriate by staff. During periods when demand for computers is slower, the library director may allow computer time extensions at staff discretion.

The library's computers are set up for use by a single individual. A maximum of two persons may sit/work together at any one computer, except in special situations such as when a parent/guardian is with children.

Users have both the right of confidentiality and the right of privacy. The library should uphold these rights by policy, procedure, and practice. Users should be advised, however, that because security is technically difficult to achieve, electronic transactions and files could become public.

Users are responsible for complying with copyright law, licensing agreements and the policies of individual websites that are viewed.

Computers will turn off fifteen minutes prior to closing

RULES GOVERNING USE OF LIBRARY COMPUTERS

Illegal activities or activities that interfere with or disrupt the network, users, services or equipment are prohibited. This includes confiscating any removable media, requiring a user to leave a computer or the premises, and contacting law enforcement authorities.

- Never block aisles, exits, access to library materials, exhibit cases or other resources.

Wireless users who do not follow the rules for wireless Internet use will be prohibited from further use. Additional action may be taken.

E-READERS

E-Readers check out for a 7 day period. E-Readers may not be renewed or placed on hold. The charge for overdue E-Readers is $1 per day. The charge for a lost or damaged E-Reader will be the cost to replace the item. Replacement cost includes replacing the device, charging cord, case, and processing fee. E-Readers may not be requested through interlibrary loan unless approved by the Library Director. If E-Reader devices are returned in the drop box, there is a fine of $25. Library patrons may not add or remove any materials (e-books, applications, or any other installed software) on the E-Readers. Before a library patron may check out an E-Reader, they are required to sign an agreement form. This form will be kept on file for recurring checkouts of the E-Readers.

Notice: Warning of Copyright Restrictions

As a patron, your ability to post or link to copyrighted material is governed by United States copyright law. The library reserves the right to delete or disable any post or link that, in the judgment of library staff, violates copyright law. In accordance with 17 USC S 512 (i)(1)(A), the library may terminate a patron’s access to the system or network for disrespect of the intellectual property rights of others, or for repeat infringements of copyright. The library has adopted this policy and will make all reasonable effort to enforce it in appropriate circumstances.

APPENDIX D

The Seaside Public Library supports the American Library Association Library Bill of Rights in affirming that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS³

The American Library Association (ALA) affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

I. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.

II. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.

III. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.

IV. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.

V. A person's right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.

VI. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

³Adopted June 19, 1939. Amended October 14, 1944; June 18, 1948; February 2, 1961; June 27, 1967; and January 23, 1980; inclusion of "age" reaffirmed January 23, 1996, by the ALA Council

APPENDIX E

AMERICAN LIBRARIES ASSOCIATION FREEDOM TO READ⁴ STATEMENT

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority.

Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

2. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated.

Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

⁴This statement was originally issued in May of 1953 by the Westchester Conference of the American Library Association and the American Book Publishers Council, which in 1970 consolidated with the American Educational Publishers Institute to become the Association of American Publishers.

Adopted June 25, 1953, by the ALA Council and the AAP Freedom to Read Committee; amended January 28, 1972; January 16, 1991; July 12, 2000; June 30, 2004.

No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.

4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous.

The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed in making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large; and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.

7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one.

The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader's purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

⁴This statement was originally issued in May of 1953 by the Westchester Conference of the American Library Association and the American Book Publishers Council, which in 1970 consolidated with the American Educational Publishers Institute to become the Association of American Publishers.

APPENDIX F

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION FREEDOM TO VIEW⁵

The FREEDOM TO VIEW, along with the freedom to speak, to hear, and to read, is protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In a free society, there is no place for censorship of any medium of expression. Therefore these principles are affirmed:

1. To provide the broadest access to film, video, and other audiovisual materials because they are a means for the communication of ideas. Liberty of circulation is essential to insure the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression.
2. To protect the confidentiality of all individuals and institutions using film, video, and other audiovisual materials.
3. To provide film, video, and other audiovisual materials which represent a diversity of views and expression. Selection of a work does not constitute or imply agreement with or approval of the content.

⁵This statement was originally drafted by the Freedom to View Committee of the American Film and Video Association (formerly the Educational Film Library Association) and was adopted by the AFVA Board of Directors in February 1979. This statement was updated and approved by the AFVA Board of Directors in 1989. Endorsed January 10, 1990 by the ALA Council.

4. To provide a diversity of viewpoints without the constraint of labeling or prejudging film, video, or other audiovisual materials on the basis of the moral, religious, or political beliefs of the producer or filmmaker or on the basis of controversial content.
5. To contest vigorously, by all lawful means, every encroachment upon the public's freedom to view.

APPENDIX G

FREE ACCESS TO LIBRARIES FOR MINORS⁶

An Interpretation of the LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

Library policies and procedures which effectively deny minors equal access to all library resources available to other users violate the Library Bill of Rights. The American Library Association opposes all attempts to restrict access to library services, materials, and facilities based on the age of library users.

Article V of the Library Bill of Rights states “a person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.” The “right to use a library” includes free access to, and unrestricted use of, all the services, materials, and facilities the library has to offer. Every restriction on access to, and use of, library resources, based solely on the chronological age, educational level, or legal emancipation of users violates Article V. Libraries are charged with the mission of developing resources to meet the diverse information needs and interests of the communities they serve. Services, materials, and facilities which fulfill the needs and interests of library users at different stages in their personal development are a necessary part of library resources. The needs and interests of each library user, and resources appropriate to meet those needs and interests, must be determined on an individual basis. Librarians cannot predict what resources will best fulfill the needs and interests of any individual user based on a single criterion such as chronological age, level of education, or legal emancipation.

The selection and development of library resources should not be diluted because of minors having the same access to library resources as adult users. Institutional self-censorship diminishes the credibility of the library in the community, and restricts access for all library users.

Librarians and governing bodies should not resort to age restrictions on access to library resources in an effort to avoid actual or anticipated objections from parents or anyone else. The mission, goals, and objectives of libraries do not authorize librarians or governing bodies to assume, abrogate, or overrule the rights and responsibilities of parents or legal guardians. Librarians and governing bodies should maintain that parents—and only parents—have the right and the responsibility to restrict the access of their children—and only their children—to library resources. Parents or legal guardians who do not want their children to have access to certain library services, materials or facilities, should so advise their children. Librarians and governing bodies cannot assume the role of parents or the functions of parental authority in the private relationship between parent and child. Librarians and governing bodies have a public and professional obligation to provide equal access to all library resources for all library users.

Librarians have a professional commitment to ensure that all members of the community they serve have free and equal access to the entire range of library resources regardless of content, approach, format, or amount of detail. This principle of library service applies equally to all users, minors as well as adults. Librarians and governing bodies must uphold this principle in order to provide adequate and effective service to minors.
